

POWER RELATIONSHIPS

Immature, dysfunctional relating

Valley of the Masters

Break up the blindness.
Develop their empathy skills.

End the temper and threats.
Never permit bullying. (Use
Boundary Skills and TimeOuts.)

Easiest

MASTER
Entitlement
Wants what he/she/wants.
Uses threat to get it.
Very poor empathy skills.

PASSIVE MASTER
Entitlement
Wants what he/she wants
Displays "distress" to get it
Dependent on others

- Be not a caretaker, yourself.
- Turn the pause into an invitation for their solution.
- They must learn to earn what they get.
- Dialogue about their choices, but leave the decision up to them.

A Bit Harder

Do this! Think this!
Or else.

I need this....
This upsets me
(passive waiting)

What should I do?
What should I think?
I'll be good!

What do you need?
Are you upset?
How can I help?

SLAVE
A caretaker / obedient servant
Intuits other people getting upset.
Conflict avoidant
Very poor self-nurturing skills.
Very dependent on others

Cut them off from "authorities" and "needy" people.
Guide them to learning how they act, how they got that way, sharing their story with others.
Guide them into awareness of self and self-responsibility.

Most rewarding. "Like giving birth to a self."
